

War Blazes In Ulster; Rest Of Ireland Quiet

Guerilla Fighting Continues Between Sinn Feiners and Unionists

BRITISH PLACATE COLLINS
Irish Leader Accepts British Explanation of Troops in Ireland

By Ed. L. Keen
By United Press Leased Wire
London. — Warfare between gangs of gunmen representing the Sinn Feiners and unionists raged in Belfast Thursday, while peace reigned in the territory of the Irish free state. Twenty-six of the kidnapped unionists have been released by the Sinn Feiners, Winston Churchill, secretary of the colonies, announced in commons.

Churchill made the announcement in moving speech reading of the bill ratifying the Irish treaty by legalizing the Irish free state.

COLLINS PLACATED
The British have succeeded in placating Michael Collins, chief of the free state provisional government, who came to London to demand that the remainder of the troops be withdrawn from Ireland. Collins has returned to Dublin, after having accepted the British plan for a frontier lagoon commission to ally, unrest along the Ulster border and settle territorial disputes. Talk of a coup d'etat by De Valera's supporters to overthrow the provisional government and establish a republic has died down.

But, with peace fairly well established in the south, the flames of civil war continue to crackle in the north. Nine persons were killed during Wednesday's fighting in Belfast. The death total Thursday stands at 35 dead and more than 100 wounded.

The fighting is almost altogether sniping—sharpshooters from house to house—with occasional sorties by small groups of gunmen.

HOPEFUL OF PEACE
There was hope for the bitterness in Belfast would die down with release of the Ulstermen kidnapped by Sinn Feiners on their recent border raids. Just before he started home Collins received a message that eleven more kidnapped men had been found by free state authorities and that their release was expected immediately. So far, however, only three of the kidnapped men have returned to their homes.

The Sinn Feiners had fresh cause for grievance in the arrest of three officers of the Irish republican army by Ulster constables in Newry, County Down. This town is claimed by both the free state and Ulster. It is represented in the dail by Michael Collins. The Irish republican army officers were taken to the police barracks, searched and detained. This may result in more border raids in reprisals.

MURDER MOTIVE STILL A MYSTERY

Normand's Chauffeur Reviews Screen Star's Visit to Home—Gang Not Held

By United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles. — "We are no nearer finding the motive for the murder of William Desmond Taylor, or identifying his murderer, than we were on the day of the crime," District Attorney Woolwine said Thursday.

Bisculane and Dewar took William Davis, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, to scene of the crime again Wednesday night and made him go all over the last visit of the movie star to the director from the time they came down the walk from the hangar, now together until the automobile moved away with Miss Normand in it and Taylor standing waving to her.

After grilling eight backseat suspects, postoffice inspectors Thursday declared they had no connection with the Taylor case.

EVERYBODY SUES IN THORNE HOME

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago. — Suit following suit in the home of Thorne Thursday.

Mrs. Katherine Thorne, divorced wife of William C. Camp, sued Camp demanding an accounting. She said she authorized him to sell $1,000 shares of stock. He sold it at $90 a share, only gave her $70, and "held out" the remainder, she alleged.

Miss Mary Lygo, former Polities girl, sued Mrs. Thorne for $100,000 for slander and also filed suit for a like amount against the son, Gordon Thorne, charging breach of promise.

Mrs. Thorne is the widow of former official of the Montgomery Ward company and was left $2,000,000 by her husband.

TURNED DEAF EAR TO PARTY IN DECISIONS

Harding Put Business Precision First in Shipping and Bonus Matters

HAD TO TURN DOWN LODGE
President Believes in Bonus and Will Sign Bill if Congress Passes One

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington. — President Harding has just made two brave decisions which, irrespective of anything else that may happen to his political fortunes, stand out as milestones in his career.

To turn down his personal friend and political associate, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, on a matter that meant much to the chances of Mr. Lodge for reelection this fall was to do something which few presidents have had the courage to do. To turn down the almost unanimous demand of his party associates in congress for either a bond issue or a series of direct taxes to raise money for a soldier bonus was also no simple matter.

Both decisions have been based upon what Mr. Harding himself admits were the inexorable laws of business and sound finance as against the will of politics and special favor.

EMBARRASSED LODGE
Briefly, Senator Lodge was put in an embarrassing position by some voters in his constituency who saw no reason why the Boston navy yard with 2,500 workers, should not get the benefit of a bonus. Lodge, in recommending the former German liner Leviathan, Mr. Lodge was persuaded to introduce an amendment to a pending appropriation bill which would have compelled the United States Shipping board to let the contracts for navy yards and to disregard the bids already made for the work by private firms.

The senate adopted the amendment but President Harding listened to the objections of Chairman Lasker of the shipping board who declared that several firms had already spent many thousands of dollars in making surveys to determine how much to bid and that sound business principles dictated the necessity of giving the work to the lowest bidder.

NEEDED LASKER
The president has the utmost confidence in Chairman Lasker and he showed it in a signal way by following the latter's recommendation instead of the pleadings of a political boss friend. Wednesday, therefore, the shipping board awarded the contract to the Newport News Shipbuilding company and so far as politics is concerned, a Democratic constituency in Virginia will get the benefit of the work and there will be no political advantage to the administration except insofar as following a business instead of political principle is broadly a good thing.

As for the bonus, Mr. Harding's attitude was stated substantially as follows at the White house.

Under the pressure of war's responsibilities and the spirit of patriotism and the readiness to do or die, the government had to raise money. But in times of peace there is not the same sweep of determination to do things. For this reason, the president doubts whether it would be possible to raise the necessary sum for the bonus under the same conditions. He made frank confession of this fact that in the primary campaign which preceded the Chicago convention of 1920, he came out for a soldier bonus.

Things were said by him and sundry other candidates for the presidential nomination in 1920. But he was not sincere in judgment as he finds things to be upon executive responsibility. But faithful to his promise, insisting that he never failed to keep a promise publicly made, Mr. Harding does not now say that the bonus is wrong in principle but he stands by it and will sign a bonus bill.

Sings "Livery Stable Blues" As Doctor Cuts

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago. — A prominent Chicago surgeon wielded his knife during a serious operation on a 16-year-old boy at St. Luke hospital to the tune of "Livery Stable Blues." Only a local anesthetic was administered.

"The boy had other operations and disliked anesthetics," said the doctor who asked that both names be withheld. "He sang as I cut."

WANT LOWER RAIL RATE ON COAL HAULING

Appleton Industries Will Benefit From Revision of Freight Rates

Appleton industries, and indirectly all residents of the city and vicinity, are interested in the statewide fight which has been inaugurated before the railroad commission of Wisconsin for more equitable rates on soft coal shipments in carloads.

The fight is against the alleged discrimination in rates favorable to Milwaukee dock operators and if successful will mean lower rates for thousands of dollars saved to coal consumers in all parts of the state. The application for a revision of rates was brought by Green Bay dock operators backed by the association of commerce of that city, but is said to be in behalf of coal consumers throughout the state and brought with the endorsement of many large industrial plants.

Primarily the object of the movement is to obtain a revision so that rates will be based on mileage. This will give cities near docks a lower rate than cities now forced to pay, as it is charged rates in many parts of the state are held up so that Milwaukee dock operators may lay their coal down in these cities at the same cost as coal purchased from docks nearer at hand. This committee is not in competition on an even basis in parts of the state which logically would be considered territory of some other lake port.

The alleged discrimination against Appleton is brought home most forcibly by the following figures: Appleton is 30 miles from Green Bay and freight on a ton of coal from Green Bay to Appleton is $1.35. Appleton is 98 miles from Milwaukee and the rate is $1.35 per ton.

CONSUMERS ARE PENALIZED

Business Is Beginning To Reap Harvest From Work Sown During Last Year

By United Press Leased Wire
Dayton, Ohio. — The tinkling bells of the nation's cash boxes are playing in keen announcement to increasing business, according to echoes reaching the National Cash Register company here.

The echoes are in the form of a sales report for last month showing a $200,000 increase in business over January, 1921; a 10 per cent gain in foreign business and similar encouraging condition the first half of February.

DENY SEAT TO HOWAT; KEEP RANKS SOLID

United Mine Workers Now Have Strong Force to Fight Operators April 1

VOTE ON WAGES SATURDAY
Delegates from Reorganized Kansas District Are Seated—Outlaws Barred

By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind. — Conservative elements in the United Mine Workers convention lightened their hold on the organization Thursday when the wage scale convention here adopted the final report of the credentials committee without seating Alexander Howat and his followers who had been expelled from the organization.

The report seated delegates from the reorganized Kansas district and was adopted by the convention without serious opposition.

HAVE SOLID FRONT
This enables the mine workers to present a solid front in their wage fight with the mine owners which may result in national strike April 1 at expiration of their wage agreement.

Howat's last stand will be made Friday when a roll call is taken on his appeal from the decision of the international executive board which deposed him from the district presidency and threw him out of the union.

Vote on the report of the wage scale committee recommending that the union fight with all its strength to retain the present basic scale in bituminous fields and for 20 per cent increase in anthracite regions cannot be taken before Saturday. All indications are the convention will continue until Saturday night and possibly may not end before early next week.

RAIL MEN MAY NOT UNITE

Cleveland, O. — Railroad workers of America will not join a strike in sympathy with miners, proposed April 1, if operators fail to meet wage scales announced at the miners' Indianapolis convention, a high official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers told the United Press Thursday.

"We have very specific regulations governing this point," he declared, "rules which forbid us to enter sympathy strikes."

All during negotiations which led to the announcement of the joint railroad-mining conference in Chicago Feb. 21, brotherhood leaders maintained they would not go as far as to call a strike in sympathy with the miners, though intimating the "economic interests" of the two labor bodies were closely allied. Railroad men are expected to give "moral and financial support."

SMALL CHANCE FOR DROP IN RENTALS

Eau Claire. — Little if any expectation of a drop in rents of Milwaukee was expressed by R. Bruce Douglas of Milwaukee this morning addressed the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers, holding their twelfth annual convention here, on the appraiser's work in 1922.

House and other rents will tend to range high until the next presidential election, and because they will be estimated more closely they will never drop to prewar levels, he said.

His was a practical talk dealing with the practical side of the real estate business, the fixing of rental charges, etc. He said that rents were slow in starting upwards and were slow in going down because of the long term contracts and leases, and they are now only from 2 to 3 per cent below the peak, where they are apt to range for the next three years.

Wausau. — "We are suffering from economic instability from a disordered condition of the credit system," said J. H. Tregoe, New York, in an address before the Wisconsin Credit Men's association convention here Wednesday night.

Raise Bonus By Tax Or Defer It, Harding Says

CHICAGO PONZI

Raymond D. Bischoff, 25, a federal investigator in Chicago disclosed, has only $1000 in assets to meet $4,500,000 liabilities. Without any business experience Bischoff, 25 months ago, opened a brokerage business, investing the savings of stockyard employees to whom he gave his personal note. Bischoff says his operations were legal and that he could have recouped his losses, had his operations not been interrupted by a receiver-ship.

JURY LOOKS INTO $6,000,000 'GET RICH QUICK' PLAN

Police Close on Trail of Wallingford Who Trimmed Foreigners

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago. — Grand jury probes into the "get rich quick" schemes that cost Chicago's foreign born population more than $6,000,000 were started Thursday.

E. S. Hodges, assistant state's attorney said he would take witnesses before the jury and ask for the indictment of Leslie Harrington, who fled two leaps ahead of police who raided his offices.

Harrington, according to his office aides who were arrested, borrowed nearly $1,000,000 on personal notes from Lithuanians after promising to pay as high as 100 per cent interest.

The case of Raymond J. Bischoff, youthful wizard of the stockyard district who crashed for $4,500,000, will be considered by the investigating body Friday.

Chicago operatives stated they expect the arrest of Harrington in Florida soon. According to information from Palm Beach, the wife of the "genius" is under surveillance there. Bischoff is under arrest, charged with operation of a confidence game.

The affairs of Charles Apple, head of the latest finance company to come under federal scrutiny, were probed by state and federal authorities.

SENATE WANTS "INSIDE" ON ARMS PARLEY

Passes Hitchcock Resolution Demanding Full Minutes of Conference

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington. — The senate Thursday without a record vote adopted the Hitchcock resolution requesting President Harding to send in all available information regarding the conversations from which the four-power Pacific treaty was evolved.

At the end it probably will be necessary to invite Hughes before the foreign relations committee to get the information, the Democrats believe. They want to find out for instance, whether Balfour brought with him to the conference a draft of a three or four-power treaty which he proposed as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and whether another draft was submitted by the Japanese. They wish to be told why France was included in the pact. They intend to learn, if they can, how the treaty was the work of American and how much that of foreign statesmen; they want to be told what was said about guarantees of territorial integrity and the use of force to uphold the treaty.

HARDING'S NOTE

Washington. — The text of President Harding's letter on the bonus follows:

My dear Mr. Fordney:

"In accordance with the promise made to yourself and your associates on the senate and house committee, charged with the responsibility of formulating the proposed bonus legislation I have carefully looked into the program of taxation which has been suggested. In addition thereto I have made inquiry into the feasibility of issuing either short time treasury notes or long-time bonds to meet the financial obligations which the proposed legislation will impose. It is not possible to commend to you either of the plans suggested.

SUGGESTS TAX
"It continues to be my best judgment that any compensation legislation enacted at this time ought to carry with it the provisions for raising the needed revenues and I find myself unable to suggest any commendable plan other than that of a general sales tax. Such a tax will distribute the cost of rewarding the ex-service men in such a manner that it will be borne by all the people whom they served and does not commit the government to class imposition of taxes or the resumption of the burdens repealed, the maintenance of which can be justified only by a great war emergency.

It is fully realized how great is the difficulty which confronts the congress in solving this difficult problem. I am aware of the strong sentiment in congress in favor of this adjusted compensation. I have spoken approvingly myself, always with the reservation that the bestowal shall be made when it may be done without such injury to the country as will nullify the benefits to the ex-service men themselves which this expression of gratitude is designed to bestow.

CASH IS PROBLEM
"We have no serious problem in beginning the allotments of public lands and the immediate issue of paid up insurance. The real difficulty lies in the payment of cash bonus.

"Inasmuch as the treasury is to be called upon to meet more than six billion dollars of maturing obligations in the sixteen months immediately before us, it is not possible to recommend the issue of several hundred millions of additional short time notes.

"Granting that it is not fair to oppose any proposed plan without offering a substitute, let me repeat that I believe the American people will accept the levy of a general sales tax to meet the payment of bonus payments and we should contribute thereby no added difficulties to the problems of readjustment. If congress will not adopt such a plan, it would be wise to let the legislation go over until there is a situation which will justify the cash outlay.

CARING FOR DISABLED
"I take it that the ex-service men themselves are no less concerned than others about the restoration of business and the return to abundant employment. Those of their wounded and sick comrades, who were impaired by their war service, are being cared for with the most liberal generosity the nation can bestow. There are here and there exceptional cases of neglect and attending complaint, but we are seeking them out and correcting with all possible speed. These things are recited to reassure you that such delay as will be necessary to act in prudence for the common good, will have no suggestion of unkindness or ingratitude.

"Very truly yours,
"WARREN G. HARDING."

INDICT RICKARD; DENIES HIS GUILT

Grand Jury Holds Fight Promoter for Alleged Luring of Young Girls

By United Press Leased Wire
New York. — George L. (Tex) Rickard, famous boxing promoter, was indicted by the grand jury Thursday on charges made by young girls.

Two indictments were returned against Rickard. Each contains three counts.

The girls say that Rickard lured them to his office in the tower of Madison Square garden which was formerly the studio of Stanford White in which parties—described as famous "flappers"—were given.

They also allege he took them to an apartment house on West 104th street.

Rickard's attorneys were notified to have him appear in the supreme court at once to plead to the charges. He is already out on $10,000 bail which he supplied when first arrested.

Rickard pleaded not guilty.

Tax is Only Way Everybody Would Contribute to War Reward, Letter Says

CASH PAYMENT IS PROBLEM
President is Against Piecemeal Payment Plan—Bond Issue Unadvisable

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington. — The soldier bonus should be postponed until a more favorable time unless congress is willing to adopt a general sales tax, President Harding declared in a letter to Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee Thursday.

The president's letter makes it doubtful now if a bonus bill will be passed. Strong opposition to the sales tax exists in congress.

Harding, however, expressed the belief that the country would favor a general sales tax to pay the bonus. The president put the bonus back to congress by emphatically stating:

WISE TO DELAY
"If congress will not adopt such a plan (sales tax) it would be wise to let the legislation go over until there is a situation which will justify the large outlay."

The president declared against a piecemeal payment plan and the issue of short-time securities or long time bonds to meet the financial obligations the bonus would impose on the country.

Suggestions that expected savings in the appropriations be utilized are unwise in the president's opinion and congress should not try to anticipate such savings.

TAX ONLY SUGGESTION
"I cannot commend any plan other than that of a general sales tax," President Harding announced. "Such a tax will distribute the cost of rewarding the former service men in such a manner that it will be borne by all the people whom they served and does not commit the government to class imposition of taxes or the resumption of the burdens repealed, the maintenance of which can be justified only by a great war emergency."

President Harding made the above statement in his letter to congress for adjusted compensation.

MUST CHOOSE TIME
"I have spoken approvingly myself," he added, "always with the reservation that the bestowal shall be made when it may be done without such injury to the country as will nullify the benefits to the former service men themselves which this expression of gratitude is designed to bestow."

The president explained that the chief difficulty in the bonus question lies in the cash payment, as there is no serious problem in beginning the allotments of public land or issuance of paidup insurance.

In view of the $6,000,000,000 in federal obligations maturing within sixteen months, issuance of several hundred million dollars in additional short term notes is unadvisable, the president said.

TRACE MOVEMENTS OF JAILED PRIEST

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee. — The prosecution in the case of Father Adelardo De Lorme, charged with murdering his half brother, Raoul, is seeking evidence Thursday concerning the priest's movements the night of the crime.

It is alleged Father De Lorme took Raoul for an auto ride, shot him and threw his body at the roadside, the motive being to get his estate and life insurance. Neighbors of Father De Lorme told investigators they heard the engine of his car running at 11 p. m. the night of the murder. The accused contends he merely started the motor to see if it would run smoothly, as the night was cold.

I'd let my needle bring in some extra dollars. And it's the extra dollars that count nowadays.

I'd let the women of Appleton know that I could sew the way they'd like to do it themselves if they only had the time.

I would get these women to bring their sewing to me—hem, stitching, embroidery, tatting, plain sewing, etc.

I might have to get a few "help-ers" later on, but they would only increase my trade and my profits.

I would get Appleton women to bring their sewing to me through Post-Crescent Ward Ads, the easiest, quickest, most economical way.

mercy, testifying before the state commission said:

"Consumers, tributary to a nearby dock, should not be penalized by the maintenance of rates from that dock, far in excess of what the service is reasonably worth simply to satisfy the carriers' desire to open up all the territory in Wisconsin to the Milwaukee dock operators."

"Let us direct your attention to rates on the line of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad between Green Bay and Milwaukee, operating through Fond du Lac, Milwaukee is permitted to come to Little Rapids, 116 miles, at a rate of $1.35 per ton. The Green Bay operator is forced to pay $1.35 per ton for 12 miles of transportation from Green Bay to Little Rapids. In other words, the Milwaukee dock operator is getting 116 miles of transportation for exactly the same rate as the Green Bay dock operator is getting 12 miles of like transportation."

GIVES MANY INCONSISTENCIES
Mr. Kerwin cited instance after instance, affecting many parts of the state, in which the same conditions prevail.

"The significant fact in these inconsistencies is that the consumer pays," said Mr. Kerwin. "Coal users should be enabled to secure their coal from the nearest dock, at a reasonable rate from that dock, not a rate on a twelve miles haul, equal to a rate for 116 miles. The present blanket adjustment, that is so advantageous to Milwaukee, is maintained at the expense of every coal consumer who is located at a point nearer to any other dock."

SHOULD BE FAIR TO ALL
Testifying further, Mr. Kerwin said:

"You have before you a graphic picture of the result of an effort on the part of these carriers over a long period of time to produce a fair and equitable adjustment of rates on soft coal in the State of Wisconsin—an adjustment that is supposed to be fair alike to the consumer, dock operator, and carrier. We submit that the present adjustment places an undue burden on the great majority of the people in Wisconsin, that it is unduly preferential to Milwaukee, and prejudicial to the Green Bay dock operators, and furthermore, it is constructed so as to give these carriers the maximum revenue for the minimum of service."

"As a whole, this is the most abortive attempt at trying to produce a fair and equitable group adjustment of rates we have ever seen. We, therefore, urge this commission to prescribe reasonable rates for the transportation of coal in the state of Wisconsin. The present coal rates in Wisconsin are at the absolute peak. We will never see higher rates; as a consequence, now is the time to make the readjustment necessary to produce a fair and reasonable adjustment of rates with the minimum disturbance to industry, and without placing too great a burden on the carriers. It certainly is not in the public interest to permit these carriers to do any further experimenting with this matter."

GEORGE FREDERIC HANDEL
German Composer of Early Eighteenth Century

George Frederic Handel (1685-1759) was one of the greatest masters of the classic school. He wrote chiefly in the form of the Italian opera, and the Oratorio. His operas are rarely given today, although many of the single arias from these works are frequently found on concert programs.

Handel's greatest and best known work is "The Messiah," an oratorio produced more often than any other. Handel left his post as court musician of Hanover because England offered more fame and fortune. He is buried in Westminster Abbey. Handel was a contemporary of the great Bach, with whom he stands supreme in the world of music.

Hallelujah Chorus, (The Messiah)
This great chorus is the climax of the most popular of all oratorios, the Messiah. It is said that after Handel heard the work sung for the first time the composer exclaimed "I did think I saw God Himself." The majesty and power of this great chorus has never been equaled by any chorus composer. At its first performance in 1742 the king rose to his feet to show his reverence and the audience followed his example. This has become the custom during the singing of this work.

YOUNG MAN NEAR DEATH FROM GAS IN RAILROAD CAR

Green Bay Youth, Stealing Ride, Overcome by Fumes from Charcoal Stove

Prompt response of the police patrol to a call from W. B. Basing saved a man from death by asphyxiation in a Chicago and Northwestern refrigerator car in the railroad yards here Wednesday afternoon.

The man was Compton Harvey, 25, of Green Bay. In company with Arthur Anderson of Chicago he had entered the car at Kaukauna through the trap door in the roof. They had not been in the car long until they felt the stifling fumes from a charcoal burner which had been lighted to keep the contents of the car from freezing.

Anderson struggled to get out and finally succeeded but it was a difficult task to pull himself up from the floor and force open the door overhead. He was unable to help his companion who was much weakened by the gas. When the train pulled into the Appleton yards, Anderson hastily told a switchman of his companion's plight. The car was sidetracked and the police called. Officer John Kobussen descended into the car and found Harvey unconscious. A rope was attached to the man's body and he was pulled through the roof and hurried to a physician.

Had the man remained in the car a few minutes more resuscitation would have been impossible, the doctor said. The two men were given lodging at the police station for the night but they left to continue their travels early Thursday morning.

Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, however, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. adv.

NEVER FORGET

When you feel hopeless and despair of ever getting back your health, there is one medicine that you should try before giving up altogether—Bulgarian Blood Tea assists nature to flush the colon-soaked kidney, stir the lazy liver, gently move the bowels and purify the system. And when you take it steaming hot at bedtime it breaks up a bad cold and guards against influenza, pneumonia, or other sickness. Why not ask your druggist or grocer for a trial box today. adv.

NEED SLEEPING QUARTERS FOR 75 LEGION MEMBERS

Housing Committee Still Trying to Find Lodging for Conference Delegates

Seventy-five veterans of the World war will have to spend a night sleeping in chairs or not sleeping at all while they are guests of Appleton during the state legion conference here March 4 and 5 unless more Appleton people agree to provide these men with one night's lodging. Between 75 and 100 veterans still are unprovided for, according to Edgar P. Schommer, chairman of the housing committee of the convention.

Mr. Schommer explained that the delegates are willing to "double up" in beds and are willing to share their room with as many men as can be provided with a place to sleep. No arrangements need be made for their breakfast and the delegates expect to pay for their accommodations.

Persons who are willing to take one or more men into their homes Saturday night, March 4, are expected to communicate with Mr. Schommer by telephoning 327 or writing him at 762 College-ave. Preparations for the convention are being made as rapidly as possible. About 600 commanders and adjutants of American legion posts in Wisconsin are expected and in addition there will be a large number of visitors.

The program committee still is negotiating for speakers of national reputation. It is understood that General John J. Pershing has definitely announced that he cannot attend but there is a good chance that either Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, or Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, will be here. Hanford McNider, national commander of the American legion, expects to attend the conference. Other national legion officers also are expected.

STEINBERG URGES NEW NAME FOR ASSN.

Employment of a full time secretary and a change in the name of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers to Wisconsin Realtors association were among the recommendations made by Daniel P. Mr. Steinberg also urged the association to assist in eliminating tax exempt securities by giving the federal government power to tax state bond issues and state governments power to tax federal issues. He also recommended publication of a monthly journal.

Why Is An Egg?

Some people think a hen's digestive apparatus will change any kind of feed into eggs. It can't. Eggs are composed of definite elements and these elements must be in the feed. So it isn't altogether the cost of feed that determines its value—it is the kind of elements in it and the proportion in which they are mixed.

Sterling Egg Mash is prepared from a definite formula and contains just the right proportions of each element, when fed in conjunction with Sterling Scratch Feed, to make the most eggs with least waste.

SATISFYING THE BUYER IS BIGGEST JOB OF RETAILER

Frank Stockdale Tells Merchants They Must Sell Satisfaction

Changing the public's frame of mind is the biggest job that confronts the retailer in 1922. Frank Stockdale of Chicago declared in addressing Appleton merchants and salespeople at the Vocational school Wednesday evening.

"You can't sell to a customer in the pessimistic frame of mind," the speaker said, "especially when he feels that the merchant is a profiteer on one hand and he is depressed with general conditions on the other. Be careful that you as sales people do not reflect the customer's feeling of pessimism. Be an optimist. If you would be a good salesman this year, true optimism is faith with understanding."

"The great trouble with the average man and merchant is that he is apt to lose his nerve just at the moment he could cash in on it. The time of real struggle in the retail business is on. Real service will be henceforward the test of competition. Remember, the valleys are just as deep as the hills are high. We know how high the hills are because we've been to the crest of them, so we can watch out for the bottom."

"You, the salespeople behind the counters, are the front line forces in business. If you will remember this year a great trait of the American people is that they want service, you have nothing to fear. If you will remember each day when you go to the store that you are selling satisfaction and not merely groceries, hardware, dry goods or notions, you will have mastered the retailer's biggest job in 1922."

The next number of the course in retail merchandising has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 22.

MORGAN STICKLER FOR ENFORCEMENT OF ALL THE LAWS

Attorney General Has Had Sudden Rise to Fame in Last Two Years.

Enforcement of the law and defining the law are among the chief duties of the attorney general and consequently the address on law enforcement by Attorney General William J. Morgan in Lawrence Memorial chapel next Sunday evening should be of exceptional interest. The address is under auspices of the Peoples Forum.

Mr. Morgan has instructed district attorneys in Wisconsin to leave no stones unturned in enforcing every law on the statute books. He is making a real effort to enforce the prohibition law and has defined its provisions for county attorneys in the state.

Mr. Morgan was comparatively unknown outside of Milwaukee two years ago but his spirited campaign for election made him one of the most prominent men in the state. He fought Governor Blaine bitterly and assailed the Nonpartisan league and put the digestive organs in condition to properly digest and assimilate the iron and vitamins which are in the food you eat, into your blood so it can nourish your worn nerves, withered tissue, flabby muscles and dull brain as it goes coursing through your veins.

Thousands of people in Denver are calling on H. C. Furrer, the personal representative of Garren, the celebrated Eastern scientist, whose unique theories have attracted widespread attention. Furrer has established headquarters there and people are flocking to him to thank him for the wonderfully quick results they are getting from his method of reviving their health, strength and endurance.

These callers represent people in all walks of life, ranging from laborers and their plainly dressed wives, to prosperous looking business men and fashionably dressed women, all searching for the common cause—good health, energy and a well rounded figure.

Garren's theory is mainly, that ninety per cent of all weak, thin, run down and nervous people can trace their troubles almost entirely to weak stomachs, and claims to prove this with his now famous preparation known as Garren's Tonic.

"Garren's Tonic will positively tone up the stomach," says Garren, "and

PRIZE COW ENTERED IN TROPHY CONTEST

A new entry in the contest for the silver trophy cup which is being offered by Appleton First National Bank for the highest production record of a Holstein, is that of Edward O. Mueller of Spencer-nd.

Mr. Mueller has a 3 year-old Holstein named Appleton Mercedes DeKol which produced 22.9 pounds of butter from 47.4 pounds of milk testing 3.85 per cent during the 7-day test. Her highest production for a single day was 72.8 pounds of milk or about 33 quarts.

At the age of three years, according to Roy T. Harris, official tester for the state college of agriculture, a cow's production is approximately two-thirds of what she probably will produce at maturity. If this holds true with Appleton Mercedes DeKol she will produce four and one-half pounds of butter daily in her prime.

The Socialist party at every opportunity. He was the only state officer, not endorsed by the Nonpartisan league, to be elected.

The meeting here is to begin promptly at 7:30. Musical numbers will be rendered under the direction of Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

KENYON'S COAL BILL

Senator Kenyon's bill to prevent future coal disputes will have special importance in view of the impending strike in the soft coal fields. The purpose behind Mr. Kenyon's measure is to devise some permanent method for stabilizing the coal industry in its relation to production by bringing the operators and miners into closer accord through the use of effective and practical agencies for reaching scale agreements.

Mr. Kenyon's bill is patterned somewhat after the plan in use in the railroad world. There is an arbitration tribunal in which the public, the operators and the miners are each represented. This board would not have original jurisdiction over disputes or wage adjustments, but would be called into play only after failure between the employers and the men to make a settlement. Under the proposed law the findings of the board would not be binding legally, but would be enforceable through public opinion.

The railroad labor board, while not at all times giving satisfaction either to the railroads or the men, has at least been the means of averting some very serious and disastrous strikes. It has worked perhaps better than anything else yet found for the preservation of peace in the railroad business. Whether further tests of its practicability will result in its permanent acceptance cannot be said, but it is not improbable that it forms the foundation at least of a new system for bringing capital and labor together on good terms.

The public, of course, wants to see justice done to both capital and labor. It realizes that labor naturally is under many disadvantages in dealing with capital, and that where intervention is advisable, it is generally in the interests of the men. It wants to see the men in the mining industry get a square deal as much as it wants to see the men in the railroad industry get a square deal. But over and above the question of justice as between employer and employee, it is forced to recognize the fact that its own interests are paramount.

The public is willing that the mine owners shall have an adequate return on capital honestly invested and capably administered. It wants to see the men treated as human beings and given wages and conditions of labor that will work for their advancement and self-improvement. It believes that all of these things can be had under some system which will permit the mining of coal to continue without the interruptions that frequently cause fuel famines with heavy losses to commerce and industry and much suffering to the people.

The time is near at hand when the government must interpose in the coal industry, either by taking it over and operating it itself or by creating the machinery which will automatically maintain peace and justice in its affairs. Any program which will accomplish this is worthy of national attention and the earnest consideration of congress. It may be that Senator Kenyon's plan is the proper one.

MONEY OR SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

The munificent gift of $5,000,000 to the city of Boston by the late George R. White is a conspicuous example of the civic benefit that every citizen may render to the community of which he is a part and the place in which he carries on his business or does his work. It is not enough to vote at primaries and elections, to pay taxes, and to obey the law. There is, besides, the moral obligation of contributing to the happiness of the people and the improvement and beautification of the town.

Mr. White defined this additional personal indebtedness in practical phraseology in his will. He stipulated that the net income of the large fund should be applied to supplying "such works of public utility and beauty as will serve the need and pleasure of the people, but which it is not the duty of the municipality to provide."

With an average net income of four per cent, there would be $200,000 a year for public works that will serve the need or pleasure of the citizens of Boston. During twenty-five years something like $5,000,000 will be available, and the capital, if securely invested, will remain intact.

It should be the pride of every citizen who has surplus wealth to donate a part of it to his community. He might increase the efficiency of a university or college, or found a desirable new institution, or give money to a hospital or charity, or establish a new park or playgrounds, or endow a symphony orchestra or music academy. There are many needs of a community that the municipality cannot furnish.

This special civic duty rests on the average, as well as the rich, citizen. Citizens who cannot give money for the purposes generally designated by Mr. White can render their due in some kind of community service. There are many ways in which every citizen can do something, by gift or performance, to improve living conditions, or to advance the beauty and charm of his city.

A WORLD CONSORTIUM

Business men and government representatives of England, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan have agreed in Paris to back a great barter system between all nations, including former enemies and present inimical political regimes, to rehabilitate Central Europe. Barter is the sole method of avoiding, at once, the discrepancy in exchanges. It will mean that Germany and Russia will be able to secure food, raw material and equipment they need in exchange for their own products. This has been going on to a certain extent, but a greater barter clearing house would speed up.

Unless the proposed consortium progresses beyond the barter stage, however, no final recovery will be accomplished. There is a limit to the absorption of even the best situated nations. Even the United States, creditor of all, can take in only such foreign products as will not kill home industry. Several holes in the tariff would have to be made before many varieties of trade could be carried on; and holes in the tariff are hard to make.

What is still more important, barter would have only a limited effect in stabilizing European currency. The terrible depression now existing in that region is not mainly based upon lack of foreign trade. It exists because governments have continued to issue quantities of paper money which have come to mean so little that the citizens of such countries, trading between themselves, have no means of knowing what a sale to their neighbor today will bring in actual buying power tomorrow. Consequently, internal industry and even farming is paralyzed.

To meet this situation an international gold reserve consortium or bank, as suggested by Mr. Vandervlip, with branches set up in each nation of central Europe, capable of issuing a flexible, gold-secured currency, would appear to be the right corollary for the barter scheme. It would give business in each nation the chance to carry on its transactions in sound money if it chose.

EAT 'EM ROUGH

There are many vicious circles in human hygiene. One of the most difficult to break we encounter is the confusion of cause and effect in the avoidance of certain of the coarser or rougher foods by persons who suffer with colitis—inflammation of the large intestine. Some victims of the spastic constipation which frequently accompanies colitis will not take such roughage as wheat bran freely, because they imagine it may "irritate" the intestine. And it is an old story with persons afflicted with so-called mucous colitis, that they can't eat green corn, cabbage, asparagus, celery leaves, lettuce, cucumbers, spinach and the like; nor fruits with skins; nor fruits with seeds; and various other valuable or indeed indispensable articles of diet, because, forsooth, these coarse things may "irritate" the intestine or prove "indigestible."

Bacterial infection plays an important role in the causation of some forms of colitis. But improper feeding practices or customs play a still more important role. In fact it is very reasonably argued by Dr. Robert McCarrison of Oxford, England, in a recent lecture delivered before the society of biological research, University of Pittsburgh, that too great "refinement" or "purifying" of the diet is a common primary cause of impaired digestion and intestinal disease in Great Britain and America. McCarrison, an officer of the Indian medical service, passed several years of his professional life in a remote part of the Himalayas among some races wholly isolated from civilization. Although he did about 400 major operations each year he asserts he never encountered a case of gastric or duodenal ulcer, of asthenic dyspepsia, or of cancer. The people were of magnificent physique, long lived, very fertile and preserved the characters of youth until late in life. Their remarkable health, McCarrison ascribes to these circumstances: (1) Infants are reared as nature intended them to be—at the breast. (2) The people live on the unsophisticated foods of nature—milk, eggs, grains, fruit and vegetables. "I don't suppose," remarked Dr. McCarrison, "that one in every thousand of them have ever seen tinned salmon chocolate or a patent infant food, nor that as much sugar is imported into their country in a year as is used in a moderate sized hotel in Pittsburgh in a day." (3) Their religion prohibits alcohol—they are a teetotal race. (4) Their manner of life requires the vigorous exercise of their bodies.

The "refinement" of food by various manipulations—embalming, freezing, thawing, bleaching, heating, drying, oxidation, polishing—robs it of vitamins, to be sure. But that is not the whole story. The substantial and intestine require bulk, roughage, substance which does not digest and is indigestible by man, to keep the eating muscle, the digestion muscle, the muscle coat of the food tube, in proper functional condition. If these roughages are lacking or inadequate in quantity, even the food contains sufficient vitamins, health is found to suffer seriously.

Objections to the inclusion of adequate quantities of mere roughage in the daily diet are mostly specious and based upon faulty physiological theories. For health's sake we must eat plenty of leaves, fibres, roots and herbs, fruits with skins and seeds. We should eat 'em rough, not refined.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

High School Intelligence

I am a girl 16 and up to this year I have always worn long drawers in winter time. I am now a sophomore and this year all the girls laugh at me. Mothers want me to continue but I object to being laughed at. (L.)

Answer—Wear what your own personal comfort dictates. The hygienic question is already answered when I advise you to wear that which is most comfortable under all circumstances.

Let the Baby Sleep

My baby is now 12½ months old. When my 1½ month old child was born, she was a rosy cheeked peach, not afraid of a draft or air or winter weather, a regular Brady baby. (Mrs. J. V.)

Answer—Generally a healthy baby should sleep from immediately after supper until morning without a bottle, after the age of 15 months. Of course this implies that the baby is receiving a fairly varied and liberal diet suitable for a child over a year old. It is bad practice from every point of view to keep a baby sucking at a bottle until he is old enough to vote. His milk should be fed from a cup from the time he is 15 months old, and the bottle discarded.

Pimples

Do you advise taking dandelion root boiled with wild cherry bark for pimples? (Miss T. S.)

Answer—No. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for advice about pimples.

Sex Hygiene

Kindly advise me what book or pamphlet dealing with sex hygiene I may give my 11 year old daughter to read. (Mrs. J. A.)

Answer—How Shall I Tell My Child? a pamphlet by Mrs. Woodallen Chapman, published by Revell, New York, N. Y., 30 cents. "The Mother's Reply," by Nellie M. Smith, published by American Social Hygiene association, New York, N. Y., 10 cents, or send me stamped, addressed envelope and ask for my monograph on the subject.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

A Conference Trial Balance

We who are so close to the "long, dull and complicated proceedings" of the Armament Conference are likely to get a blurred impression of the whole thing," the NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.) thinks, "unless we make a special effort to see through the details to the design." In fact, aside from the battleship-scrapping program a definite and concrete proposition which can be understood, the CHARLESTON (S. C.) NEWS AND COURIER (Dem.) finds "little more than a blur" in the public mind regarding the record of actual accomplishment which the conference leaves behind it. So, while fully agreeing with the SPEER HILL REPORT (Ind.) critic who verdicts "mildly matrican" (Ind.) that "perhaps time is the test," American editors nevertheless have endeavored so to analyze that record as to make the design clear, and to appraise its value in relation to the immediate present.

As succinctly listed by the ST. PAUL NEWS (Ind.), "the conference has done these things: "Materially lessened the chances of war. Scrapped the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Limited the size of the world's navies. Stopped competition in Pacific fortifications. Fixed the status of the islands of the Pacific. Made it possible for China to get on her feet and for Siberia to hold her own."

Sins of omission are pointed out by some writers; the JOHNSTOWN DEMOCRAT (Dem.), for one, notes that "not one word has been spoken against war itself," and the BUTTE MINER (Dem.) expresses disappointment that "the militaristic spirit has not been eradicated." The PORT WATNE JOURNAL GAZETTE (Dem.) contends that "in the final analysis it will be found that little has been accomplished in the interest of mankind" except the "saving of two hundred million dollars" on naval armament, and the LYNCHBURG (Va.) NEWS (Dem.) takes the same position. But the NEW YORK EVENING WORLD (Dem.) finds even in that limited outlook something "to rejoice over without reservation," for with "the whole armament race off" the result will be not only enormous saving of money to the taxpayer but the "suppression of one of the chief incitements to war."

But the achievements of the conference, the NEW YORK POST (Ind.) declares "strongly outweigh its failures." There are, of course, varying estimates of the relative importance of these achievements. To the ADRIAN (Mich.) TELEGRAM (Ind.) "the first and greatest" was heading off that "next war" between the United States and Japan, for "such a war was due, according to all the accepted signs." The NEW YORK TIMES (Rep.) and Canadian paper, the WINNIPEG TRIBUNE gives this point a similar place in their appraisal. Not only has there been an "allaying of suspicion and war talk between America and Japan and the substitution therefore of a spirit of friendliness and co-operation" as the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS (Dem.) puts it, but the "strangely outworn" "fairness" of the "next war" has been changed, and the Jap is no longer a "wily stranger. We now think we know him and we are quite sure we like him."

The BURLINGTON (Vt.) FREE PRESS (Rep.), the PORT WATNE NEWS (Dem.) and the NEW YORK HERALD (Ind.) and many others emphasize the importance, as the former expresses it, of "the overthrow of the alliance between Britain and Japan," for says the HERALD, "with this treaty out of the way the two great English-speaking nations can cooperate to the advantage of the world in mutual confidence and good feeling. As the victor over the world could have cooperated with this treaty in force."

Turning to a discussion of Far Eastern affairs, the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL (Dem.) believes "nothing has been accomplished beyond the acceptance of a set of high principles for future conduct," and the EL PASO TIMES (Dem.) "frankly cannot see where China has profited much by the conference." The CHICAGO TIMES (Rep.) says that the prizes held out to the Peking government, "the PEORIA TRANSCRIPT (Ind.) agrees, and "the practical value of the concession to China will be determined largely by the sincerity of the conference powers, China and Japan included." But another writer sees China leaving the conference as the victor over Japan, and so once again the victor over the world.

As the Shantung question is concerned the PROVIDENCE TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) considers it "enough to say that both China and Japan are satisfied, else they would not have signed the treaty," while the SYRACUSE HERALD (Ind.) regards that settlement alone as "worth the conference." The MILWAUKEE SENTINEL (Rep.) thinks that the manner in which the problems of the Orient were handled "is not a matter for criticism—rather it is to be wondered that so much was done toward an adjustment."

"Beyond a better feeling of understanding with Great Britain," the CHATANOOGA NEWS (Dem.) feels that "the United States gains little," but the MANCHESTER UNION (Ind. Rep.) speaks for the group which holds that this "strengthening of Anglo-American comradeship" is one of the most notable results of the conference, while the UTICA PRESS (Rep.) points out a further gain to the United States through its resumption of the "moral leadership of the world it attained in the war."

"It cannot be impressed too strongly," however, "that the greatest accomplishment of the conference is after all what the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS (Ind.) calls the "unmarked triumph of the 'conference idea.'"

That, of the NEWARK NEWS (Ind.)

is one of the "two positive achievements" of the Washington meeting, the recognition "that the way for nations to settle their problems is by talking them over around the conference table." Through the demonstrated success of this idea "democracies, if they desire peace, have a new instrument at hand," the CHICAGO NEWS (Ind.) says, for, "as the ALBANY (Pa.) CALL (Rep.) remarks, "they have learned that they can be of mutual assistance to each other, and that they can trust each other. And this 'new style' of frank and honest diplomacy 'which makes for international friendships based upon justice and fair play' is pronounced by the GRAND RAPIDS HERALD (Ind.) to be the lasting 'magnificent achievement' of the Washington conference."

Italy wants voice in the Pacific

Italy wants voice in the Pacific. The nation's policy, the idea "Nationalist" is not satisfied with the position of Italy with regard to the Quadruple Entente. It says: "Even if we had no direct interest in the Pacific we ought not to have given up having a claim and a voice to speak for, or against, the opposed interests of others and to influence them in the solution of other problems which interest our life and future more directly and more closely. This would be but an elementary measure. Besides what islands in the Adriatic belong to France, England or America? Especially what direct interest has America there? And yet these powers, and especially the America of Wilson wanted to dispute with us about every yard, every rock, every man, our land, our islands, our sea, our blood, our victory, and we allowed them to do it. We allowed these powers to do what they liked with us, we bowed before their will. What right had they in the Adriatic, in the very small and very Italian Adriatic, if not the right of victorious powers allied to Serbia and Italy? Well we also have the right of victorious powers as an ally of the powers and of China in the immense and international Pacific. For China also was our ally."

"But the Quadruple agreement goes beyond the limits of the Pacific. It is said to be a guarantee of the peace of the world. Very well. But are we now also interested in the peace of the world? Have we the right to say also what is to be the peace of the world? Have we not paid the price of six hundred thousand dead for the right of being considered as a world power? According to some papers, the head of the French delegation expressed the hope in the name of his government, of seeing the agreement extended to other territories in other parts of the world. Where? In Europe? In the Levant? In the Mediterranean? Without Italy? But even without similar propositions, the unity of world politics is such, and the interdependence of its most distant problems is such, that the Pacific agreement can but be reflected automatically even in the Mediterranean and the Levant. France and England can transport to the Mediterranean the naval forces which they will no longer need in the Pacific. For France it is not indeed a great question. But England delivered on the one hand from the nightmare of an Oceanic conflict can bring her whole weight to bear on the East. She can concentrate a much larger fleet in the Mediterranean."

"Such is the value of the Quadruple agreement for Italy," the writer concludes, "in which she does not participate because she has 'neither rights nor interests and at the conclusion of which the Italian delegation expressed its lively satisfaction.' We demand of the Italian government to do itself what the delegation has left undone."

Paris Servant Shortage

Paris. — Paris housewives are on the war-path against the Law of 1904, by which registry offices are entitled to three per cent, of a newly engaged servant's wages for the first year, charged to the employer, says the correspondent of the LONDON TIMES. In most fashionable arrondissements a petition for the abrogation of this law has already received two thousand signatures.

"The war offered young women an opportunity to earn better wages and enjoy a freer existence by working for the munitions shops. All those able to stand the strain still remained factory hands when the war was over. Thus the demand for domestic servants is still greatly in excess of the supply, especially of 'generals'."

"This already trying situation is rendered more acute by the working of the obnoxious law of 1904. The domestic servant, having no registry fee to pay, is tempted to peek her box at the slightest difference with her mistress after the 'trial' fortnight. On the other hand, registry offices are tempted to look with a kindly eye on the servant who changes mistresses frequently, and it is thus that their interest should be as high as possible. Where the ordinary servant's wages before the war averaged forty francs a month, they now stand at 150 francs. Very often a general 'houseworker' stipulates that there is to be no washing done at home, and still more often the mistresses finds that she has no notion of cooking."

"The petitioners' demands are eminently reasonable. Up to 1904 servants alone had to pay registry fees. That was manifestly unjust. The Law of 1904 freed the servant and laid the whole of the burden on the employer. This was still unjust. Let each party pay its own housewifery—pay half the fee and it at the end of six months the servant is still in her place the mistress shall reimburse her. If she leave before six months are over she will lose the right to reimbursement."

FEATURE ALFALFA ON FARM PROGRAM

Experts Will Discuss Feeding Value at Greenville Farm Institute

Alfalfa growing is to be one of the most important topics up for discussion at the Greenville farmer institute which is planned for Thursday and Friday, Feb. 23 and 24. The institute has been arranged by Greenville town board for the benefit of all farmers in that locality.

Peter C. Swartz of Waukesha, owner of Corn-Alfalfa farms, Waukesha, is to be the principal speaker on the opening day on the alfalfa program. Mr. Swartz has had remarkable success with this crop and knows its value to dairy farmers.

Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, will follow Mr. Swartz with a talk on the seed situation. He will review the success of last year's effort to pool orders and obtain genuine Grimm alfalfa seed that will withstand the climate successfully. Farmers who want to grow alfalfa this summer will be given opportunity to arrange for seed through Mr. Nyhus.

The alfalfa topics is one of the closest to the farmers who will attend the institute, because Greenville is located in the heart of that section of the county where alfalfa is grown with greatest success. Farmers have discovered that this crop has a high feeding value that nets greater dairy profit by lowering feed costs. The aim of the talks will be to interest more men in growing this crop.

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

Members of Oney Johnston post of American Legion have been notified to attend a special meeting in Elk hall Thursday evening. Important business of a nature not revealed is to be transacted.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

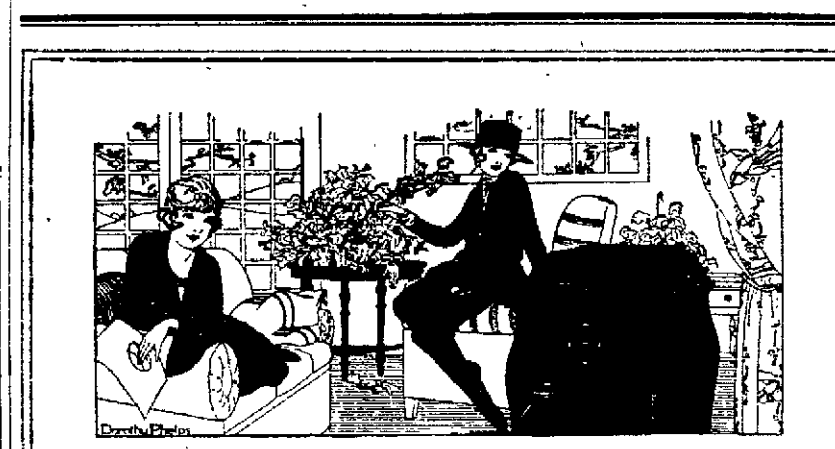

Makes a family supply of really dependable rough medicine, is prepared, and saves about 5¢.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition When She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about two years and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble.

URGE COUNTY TO GRAVEL RIVER-RO.

Hortonville Men Fear Loss of Business and Mail Service if Road is Blocked

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Hortonville—Officials of the village board and a large number of business men visited the county highway committee at Appleton Monday morning, urging that the Wolf River road, out of Hortonville, be surfaced with gravel. The road, running through the town of Horton, was ditched and elevated last fall but not gravelled. The delegation pointed out to the committee that the United States postoffice inspector threatens to transfer all mail to New London for farmers living in that locality unless the road is fixed at once. Hortonville businessmen realized also that a large amount of trade will be lost to the village if this road becomes impassable, it was said.

A special meeting of Hortonville town board will be held Feb. 23 to vote on raising money for this work, so the county board can act on the request at its meeting this month. It is believed that the work will be done this spring.

FIRST DEBATE TO BE IN AFTERNOON

Kaukauna Teams Meet Seymour and New London in Triangular Match

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school affirmative debating team will meet its opponents in the high school auditorium Friday afternoon instead of in the evening, it was decided at a meeting of the school faculty Monday afternoon. The Seymour negative team will debate here. Kaukauna negative debaters will go to New London.

In line with debating in the high school, but not connected with it in any way, are efforts on the part of several students to start declamatory work. Considerable interest was shown in oratory and declamatory work in previous years but this term all efforts of the teacher were centered in debating.

The following students have signed up for declamation, Elizabeth Schussman, Olive Jacobson, Lucille Smith, Irene Mooney, Marie Menting and Lucille Dietzler and are preparing for a contest to be held the latter part of March or early in April.

Back Feel Lame, Sore and Achy?

Are you lame every morning? Do you drag through the day with a steady, nagging backache—evening find you "all played out"? Probably your kidneys are to blame. Hurry, worry, lack of rest and a heavy diet, all tend to weaken the kidneys. Your back gives out; you feel depressed and suffer headaches, dizziness and kidney irregularities. Don't go from bad to worse. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Home folks recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

Here's an Appleton Case
Oliver G. Feavel, 772 Second Ave., says: "I met with an accident, which laid me up and affected my kidneys and bladder. My back ached and the kidney secretions passed with a burning sensation. The medicine I was taking seemed to give me no relief. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I decided to get some. Three boxes made me well." adv.

Recipe Contest Gives Cooks Bigger Variety

Every woman has a certain set of recipes with which she has become familiar and to which she turns when she enters her kitchen to prepare a meal. By constant use of just those recipes and no others she gets into a rut and her meals are no longer interesting to her family. If you allow all these recipes to be printed without ever trying one yourself, you are losing out on a splendid opportunity. Here are some pies which tempt you to try them:

This Fine Family Keeps Well By Taking Father John's Medicine

No healthier family than the De Youngs can be found in Paterson. Just recently Mr. DeYoung said, "About eight years ago I had a very bad cold and nothing gave me relief until I took Father John's Medicine. I have four children and when they have a cold we give them Father John's Medicine and it helps them right away. Last year I did not have a doctor for any of us. (Signed) Theo DeYoung, 50 21st Avenue, Paterson, N. J.

Father John's Medicine is called the greatest body builder because it is all pure food which builds new flesh and strength.

COUNCIL HALTS SETTLEMENT OF SCHOOL MATTER

Joint Committee's Recommendation to Engage Lockhart is Tabled

The movement toward solution of Appleton's school problem was given a sharp setback Wednesday night when the common council, by unanimous vote, tabled a recommendation of the joint committee of the common council and the board of education to engage G. L. Lockhart, educational survey expert and architect, to immediately take charge of the school situation here. The council voted to lay the entire school matter on the table until in March when it is proposed to take steps toward securing an educational expert from the state department of education to make a school survey of the city. Eleven members of the council, including all except Alderman James A. Wood, signed the resolution to table joint committee's report.

The committee, which was composed of six members of the council and representatives of the board of education, were unanimous in their opinion that Mr. Lockhart should be engaged and had prepared a report of their findings with the suggestion that the council engage him. Last Saturday night, however, an informal meeting of council members was held and it was understood at that time that an agreement was reached to table the matter at this time. The discussions all were held at the informal meeting and when the matter came up Wednesday night it was disposed of without a word.

A resolution, presented by Alderman Robert McGillen and adopted by the council, instructed the city engineer to prepare plans for a sanitary sewer for the lower Fourth ward and present the plans at the next regular meeting.

Upon the request of O. F. Weisgerber, city engineer, a resolution was adopted providing for rebuilding the water intake at the foot of Second-st. The cost of the work was estimated at $5,000 by the engineer.

The council instructed the city attorney to investigate and report at the next regular council meeting if the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat & Power Co. is lowering its rate on gas and light as the cost of coal is reduced.

Frank Barks was granted a sewer license. L. R. Adams of Menasha was granted a plumber's license for the city of Appleton.

Mayor J. A. Hawes was absent and James A. Wood, president of the council, occupied the chair.

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

by JOHN FOX JR.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
WHITE ARROW, a boy of fifteen, escapes from the Shawnee Indians by whom he has been reared and takes refuge in a settler's stockade in the "dark and bloody" ground of Pre-Revolutionary Kentucky. He states that he was captured by Indians in infancy and that his mother taken prisoner with him, was killed. The Indians attack the fort, and a Virginian, mortally wounded, recognizes White Arrow as his son. White Arrow's real name is Erskine Dale. DAVE YANDELL, a pioneer, acts as guardian and sends Erskine to Red Oakes, the great Dale plantation on the River James. Erskine is kindly received by his father's younger brother, COLONEL DALE, and his cousins, BARBARA and HARRY.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Get ready for supper, Hugh," came on, cousin," he said, and led the stranger to his room and pointed to the clothes on the bed.
"Don't they fit?" he asked smiling. "I don't know—I don't know how to get into 'em."
Young Harry laughed jocosely. "Take off your war-dress," he said, "and I'll show you."
With heart warming to such kindness, and helplessness against it, the lad obeyed like a child and was dressed like a child.

The boy stood at a window looking out into the gathering dusk. His eye could catch the last red glow on the yellow river.
Over in his own wilds at that hour they were driving cows and horses into the stockade. A man had gone to each of the watch-towers. From the blackening woods came the curdling cry of a panther and the hooting of owls.
Away on over the still westward wilds were the wigwags of squaws, papposes, braves, red in skin, in blood in heart, and red with hate against the whites.

There all was hardship—danger: here all was comfort and peace. He had come, but he would not stay long away. The door opened, and Harry Dale came eagerly in.
The two boys paused in the hall and Harry pointed to a pair of crossed rapiers over the mantelpiece.
"Those were your father's," he said, "he was a wonderful fencer."
The lad shook his head in ignorance, and Harry smiled.
"I'll show you tomorrow."

Barbara almost cried out her astonishment and pleasure when she saw what a handsome figure he made in his new clothing. From under Hugh's feet the ground for the moment was quite taken away, so much to the eye, at least, do clothes make the man. Just then General Willoughby bowed with noble dignity before Mrs. Dale, and the two led the way to the dining-room.

"Harry," she said, "you and Barbara take care of your cousin."
And almost without knowing it the young Kentuckian bowed to Barbara, who courted and took his arm. But for his own dignity and hers, she would have liked to squeal her delight. The little woodsman saw the men draw back chairs for the ladies and he drew back Barbara's before Hugh, on the other side of her, could forestall him. On his left was Harry, and Harry he watched keenly, but no more keenly than Hugh watched him.
One glass of wine he took, and the dizziness that assailed him frightened him, and he did not touch it again. Beyond Barbara, Hugh leaned forward and lifted his glass to him. He shook his head and Hugh finished.
"Our Kentucky cousin is not very polite—he is something of a barbarian—naturally."

"He doesn't understand," said Barbara quickly, who had noted the incident, and she turned to her cousin. Hugh then turned to his wine and began soon to look more flushed and sulky. Shortly after the ladies left Hugh followed them, and Harry and the Kentuckian moved toward the head of the table where the men had gathered around Colonel Dale.

"Yes," said General Willoughby, "it looks as though it might come."
"With due deference to Mr. Brookton," said Colonel Dale, with a bow to the tutor from England, "it looks as though his country would soon force us to some action."
They were talking about the impending war. Through hall and doorway came now merry sounds of fiddle and banjo.
"Come on, cousin," said Harry; "can you dance?"
"If your dances are as different as everything else, I reckon not, but I can try."

Near a doorway between the parlor and hall sat the fiddlers three. Gallant bows and dainty courtshipings and nimble feet were tripping measures. "I know that dance," Erskine said to Harry, who told Barbara, and the little girl went up to him again, and flushing, he took place with her on the floor. Hugh came up.
"Cousin Barbara, this is our dance, I believe," he said a little thickly. The girl took him aside and Hugh was smiling away. Harry saw the incident and he looked after Hugh frowning. The backwoodsman conducted himself very well. He was lithe and graceful and at first very dignified, but as he grew in confidence he began to execute steps that were new to that polite land and rather boisterous, but Barbara looked pleased and all onlookers seemed greatly amused—all except Hugh.
When the last dance came and the dancers were drawn into lines, the boy who was third from the end heard Harry's low voice behind him:
"He is my cousin and my guest and you will answer to me."
The lad wheeled, saw Harry with

Hugh, left his place, and went to them. He spoke to Harry, but he looked at Hugh, with a sword-flash in each black eye.
"I don't want nobody to take up for me."
Again he wheeled and was in his place, but Barbara saw and looked troubled, and so did Colonel Dale.
The guests left with gawdy, smiles and laughter, and everyone gave the stranger a kindly goodbye. Again Harry went with him to his room and the lad stopped again under the crossed swords.
"You fight with 'em?"
"Yes, and with pistols."
"I've never had a pistol. I want to learn how to use them."
Harry looked at him searchingly, but the boy's face gave hint of no more purpose than when he first asked the same question.

From pioneer habit he awoke before dawn. He slid into his own buckskin clothes and moccasins and out the still open front door and down the path toward the river. Instinctively he had picked up his rifle, bullet-pouch, and powder-horn. Up the river to the right he could see dark woods, and he plunged into them with his eyes on the ground for signs of game, but he saw tracks only of coon and skunk and fox, and he grunted his disgust.

and loped ahead for half an hour farther into the heart of the woods.
An hour later he loped back on his own tracks. He came noiselessly behind a negro woman at the kitchen-door and there three squirrels hid on the steps before her. She gave a shriek, but recovered herself and picked them up. Her amazement grew as she looked them over, for there was no sign of a bullet-wound and she went in to tell how the Injun boy must naturally just "charm 'em right out o' de trees."
Colonel Dale soon came in.
"You've got the servants mystified," he said laughing. "How did you kill those squirrels?"
"I couldn't see their heads—so I barked 'em."
"Barked?"
"I shot between the bark and the limb right under the squirrel, and the shock kills 'em. Uncle Dan! Boone showed me how to do that."
"Daniel Boone!" breathed Harry. "Do you know Daniel Boone?"
And then Hugh came in, pale of face and looking rather ashamed. He went straight to the Kentuckian.
"I was rude to you last night and I owe you an apology."
He thrust out his hand and awkwardly the boy rose and took it.
"And you'll forgive me, too, Barbara?"
"Of course, I will," she said happily. After breakfast Harry brought out two fells and two masks.
"We fight with these," he said, pointing to the crossed rapiers on the wall, "but we practice with these. Hugh, there is the champion fencer," he said, "and he'll show you." They crossed foils—Hugh giving instructions all the time and nodding approval.
"You'll learn—you'll learn fast," he said. And over his shoulder to Harry.
"Why, his wrist is as strong as mine now, and he's got an eye like a weasel."
With a twist he wrenched the foil from his antagonist's hand. The Kentuckian was bewildered.
"You can't do that again."
"I don't believe I can," laughed Hugh.
A little later Barbara and her cousin were trotting smartly along a sandy road through the fields with the Colonel and Hugh loping in front of them.
Fiercely was a black mettlesome gelding. He had reared and plunged when Hugh mounted, but the lad sat him with an unconcern of his capers that held the Kentucky boy's eyes.
For an hour they drove the boy could hardly believe that this country was once as wild as his own, that this was to be impoverished and his own become even richer land. Many questions the little girl asked—and some of his answers made her shudder.
"Papa said last night that several of our kinsfolk spoke of going to your country in a party, and Harry and Hugh are crazy to go with them. Papa said these people would be swarming over the Cumberland Mountains before long."

ANOTHER CITY IS LIVING ON TOP OF GOTHAM BUILDINGS

Caretakers of Skyscrapers Make Their Homes on the Roof

By Alexander Herman
New York.—Atop of New York—
Grows another city.

It is in the heart of the financial district—
Yes it is one of the quietest spots on earth!

"It is like a graveyard at night," Mrs. M. E. Manley shuddered. She has been living on the roof of a 19-story building at 32 Broadway for more than two years.

"My husband is the superintendent.
We have to live here in the home the owners provide. But I hate it."

"So do I, ma," chimed in five-year-old Helen. "Only my dolls to play with—and everybody 'way down below."

Her mother smiled.
"We are comfortable, of course.
Our apartment is one of the finest in the city—good sized rooms, all conveniences."

"When I get up in the morning I find the milk, rolls and newspapers outside the door. It is no different from living uptown, except—"

"That it is so lonesome."

FLYERS ONLY NEIGHBORS
"Our only neighbors are the airplanes."

"I don't mind it," he said.

"At night when the moon is high and the lights are twinkling on the river and in the air I love to sit out and smoke my pipe. It's like a fairyland here."

Across the canyon—lower Broadway—lives another family.

"Sure, I like living here," said George L. Tanner, superintendent of the Columbia Building, "but my wife isn't keen for the idea."

"I should say not," Mrs. Tanner broke in. "It may be all right for millionaires who build their places in the air just for a fad. But I don't care for it."

The Tanner home is beautiful. The rooms are much larger than those found in the average apartment.

"But it is so hot here in the summer," Tanner complained, "that we move off to the country."

"It is all right being above the noise of the city, but it is uncomfortable getting so close to the sun."

On Williams street, just off Wall, lives Henry Overbagh and family.
They don't have to go to the country.

They have their own farm on their roof!

"I guess this is the highest farm in the world," Overbagh rubbed his hands. "It sure is the life."

"Eight eggs yesterday; nine today and more coming. The hens are laying fine. The air up here seems to agree with them."

Overbagh has charge of the Selig man building—one of the oldest brokerage office buildings in the city.

"We moved in 11 years ago. My wife and I liked it from the beginning."

Our boys grow up—and they learned to enjoy it too. It's never lonesome."

"We are at the heart of things. Our view is better than on Riverside drive.
We see two rivers and the bay."

"My children have never had to play on the streets—"

"And we are never bothered by noisy neighbors."

Now Bathrobe Is Bowing To Dame Fashion

Fashion, having brought every other sort of costume, even the housework dress for mornings, up to a certain standard of grace and beauty, has now concentrated on the bath-robe. High time, too, for with all other garments becoming and artifice, there was really no excuse for dumpy, ugly flannel bathrobes, begirt with cord and tassels at the waistline.
It is a far cry from those homely garments, however, to this winter's bath-robes; some of white are quite smart enough to do duty as evening wraps.
For instance, behold an orchid velvet robe with moulton fur; the sleeves draped and weighted with silk tassels, and one front lifted and draped across the other under a jeweled clasp.
Bathrobe? Oh, yes, indeed—and to prove it there are satin bath slippers to match.

Another sumptuous bathrobe is of cherry velvet—stenciled by hand in gold. The model comes also in black with gold stenciling. If you are a thrifty soul, select corduroy for your bathrobe rather than velvet, for a splash or two of water will not harm corduroy—and of course a bathrobe is supposed to visit the bathroom where splashes of water are likely to occur.

LEARN A WORD
EVERY DAY

Today's word is SALVAGE.
It's pronounced—sal-vayj with accent on the first syllable.
It means—to save, to recover, to rescue from destruction.
It comes from—Latin "salvare," to save.
It's used like this—"When a business house burns, the salvaged goods usually are sold at a fire sale."

WHITE SPOTS
White spots on furniture, oil-cloth or linoleum can be removed by an application of camphor.

JANE NOVAK—FILMLAND'S "OLD-FASHIONED GIRL"

By James W. Dean
New York.—I have just received the news that Jane Novak's new salary is $1,500 a week.

This is one of the most inconsequential things I know about Jane Novak. I believe the best story that could be published about Jane Novak is that the breath of scandal has never touched her.

Hollywood and the entire movie industry at this moment, needs more stories like the true one of Jane Novak and less of the cock-and-bull stories about star salaries.

In the past year I have talked to several hundred movie actors, actresses, directors and publicity men.
Many of them have lived in Hollywood and a few of them have been scandal mongers.

And when the gossips have told me this about that star and that about this star I have usually asked, "Who in thunder among the movie people is all right?"—And in the brief lists in the answers Jane Novak's name has always been mentioned.

Jane Novak entered the movies eight years ago after having played in a stage stock company with her uncle in St. Louis. She was 17 then.
She could have had sensational roles but refused them. Stardom was sacrificed or roles as leading woman in more wholesome pictures.

Other girls who entered the pictures after Jane Novak were skyrocketed to stardom and fame—and now are almost forgotten. Stardom was not won by merit of their work.
"Known as 'the old-fashioned girl,'" Miss Novak played opposite Bill
Hart, House Peters, Charles Ray, Hobart Bosworth, Tom Moore and Lewis Stone.

Most of her films have been based on outdoor stories—"Kazan," "Isobel," "The Rier's End." Her most recent release is "The Rosary."

Today she has her own company and a contract for five outdoor pic-

Washington Birthday

a luncheon or tea to celebrate Washington's birthday
these "dainties" may help solve the eternal problem of what to eat.

VIRGINIA HAM
Soak ham in cold water to more than cover for five hours. Scrape and scrub. Rinse and put on to boil in clear cold water, add salt until the skid slips off easily. It will take about three hours for a 10-pound ham.
Let cool in the liquor. Pull off the skin.
Rub one cup brown sugar into meat.
roll in dried fine bread crumbs and stick with cloves. Put in roaster and bake an hour in a moderate oven.
Baste every 15 minutes with the spiced vinegar from sweet pickles diluted with water or sweet cider or the juice from any kind of canned fruit. Pear juice is especially good.
The crumbs and sugar form a delicious crust with the fat of the ham.
This chocolate pudding is from Virginia and is good.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING
Six eggs, 2 squares bitter chocolate,
2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt,
4 cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup whipping cream, 3 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk. Mix sugar, flour and salt. Fold this mixture into the yolks of the eggs beaten till thick and lemon colored. Melt chocolate in a little of the hot milk and then add this gradually to the rest of the scalded milk. Stir in egg mixture into milk mixture and cook, stirring constantly all thick and smooth.

Beat whites of eggs till stiff and dry with a wire whisk. Fold cooked mixture into egg whites. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Whip cream, sift in sugar, flavor with vanilla and use as a sauce for pudding. The pudding is served hot or cold.

A delicious modern salad is made with cherries. There are large red cherries on the market canned specially for salad. While these are de-scribable home canned fruit drained from the juice or sunshine preserves drained from the syrup may be used.
Add one tablespoon ground English walnut to one package of Neufchatel cheese. Work to a smooth creamy paste with one teaspoon of lemon juice and one tablespoon of cream.
Fill the cavities in the cherries with the cheese mixture and serve four cherries on hearts of lettuce with French dressing.

If you are having tea make the sandwiches in the shape of little hatchets and serve cherries instead of lemon with the tea. Cookies are easily cut out the shape of hatchets or tiny trees. The tree-shaped cookies should be decorated in the branches with tiny snips of candied cherries.

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Roberts Barton

"A New Friend."

When Nick asked where Crookabone lived he was told "across the street from the chimney-sweep, and next door to the toymaker." And when he asked where the toymaker lived he was told "across the street from the chimney-sweep and next door to Crookabone."

When he asked how big Crook-abone's cellar was he was told to "multiply the length by the width, and the ceiling was as far above the floor as the floor was below the ceiling."

He tried once more. "Where's Kip?" he asked, just as Nancy had done. "Above his shoes" came the answer at once. And of course the gnome who said it thought that he was telling the truth. But something happened. The cat's eye over the gate that had been glaring down at them with a baleful green light, suddenly turned pink and then red.
Crookabone jumped to his feet.
"That's not the truth, Jigabone!" he said so you'll have to give Nick a orfeit. That cat's eye says so. If Kip isn't above his shoes, something has happened. Either he is hurt or he is bending over. If he is hurt, we must help him, and if he is bending over, that means that he is hunting for the key to the Enchanted Capboard hidden under the coal in my cellar. And he mustn't find it. Come on, gnomes, come one, come all," and Crookabone blew a shrill blast on his whistle.
Instantly all the ugly gnomes were struggling and scuffling after their leader, leaving Nancy and Nick alone in the middle of Gnome Village. The cat's eye had turned green again and gave the only light visible in this underground place.

"Let's follow," whispered Nick.
"No, don't," said a new voice at their elbow.

HERE IS NEW FROCK
FOR THE FLAPPER

An early-spring taffeta street frock for a young girl, seen recently, featured a slightly draped waist, of the hip length type, to which was attached a skirt, consisting of three rows of taffeta petals piped at the edges.
A very narrow self fabric ruffle, accordion plaited in scallops or "shells", finished the round neck and three-quarter sleeves.
One smart navy taffeta frock, with tight bodice reaching to the normal waist line and smartly flared skirt, was trimmed about the neck and the short, slashed sleeves with narrow bands of bright red taffeta put on like rick rack braid. Another clever find for a young girl, also showing the tight bodice and full skirt, had the skirt trimmed at either side, across the hips, with several rows of narrow self fabric accordion plaited ruffles, the same finish being given the neck and sleeves.

Polly and Paul--and Paris

Chapter 39--In the Treetops

BY ZOE BECKLEY

"What an ador ble place!" cried Polly, as their walk from the tram-line ended and the big elm trees of "Robinson" came into view. "I could anybody but a Frenchman think up such a thing as building dining-rooms in treetops! Oh, Paul, let's hurry and grab one at the very top!"

They climbed the rustic ladder, up, up and up. Polly squealed with delight as they reached the last platform, where a little table was laid with plates, glasses and silver. The red-gold, sunset dappled the white cloth; birds chirruped their evening songs for orchestra.

Rustic benches were their chairs and all about them was a swaying curtain of branches lush with summer leaves. From below came the cheerful clatter of dinner being served to the dejeuner etage, and presently the smiling waiter appeared to take their order.

"I never in all my life," she rhapsodized for the dozenth time,
"saw anything so cunning! Look!
Paul, at those people over there in the other trees—no, this way you can just barely catch a glimpse through the leaves."

"Gosh, but they're having a corking time!" Paul craned his neck this way and that. "Never heard so many corks flying at once! And, jumping Jehosaphat, what a swell lady—golden hair, damask cheek and everything.
Oh, baby doll! The guy's pretty well fixed in the clothes line, too, can't see his face."

"Oooh, let me look!" Polly left her outlet and peered across through the whispering branches. "They're sure having a wonderful time—Why Paul, I do believe—yes, it certainly is Monsieur Barry."

"Gee—" Paul gazed, his mouth full of salad, "if it isn't I'll eat the whole tree! Lord, but he's a gay old bird!"
Polly said nothing, returned to the table. A strange feeling of humiliation flashed over her. And she though Barry had preferred her type, had set her a little apart from the showy women the "baby dolls." Why she was only one of dozens he pretended interest in. Probably he had laughed to himself at her all along... She felt ashamed—and disappointed.

STARS AND STAR SALARIES

Most of the stories published about star salaries are true in so far as the amount of salary is concerned—but that doesn't mean anything.

Ask the internal revenue collector of your district how much difference in income a $50,000 increase in salary means to a person getting a salary of six figures. The government gets the greater part of it in income tax.

One reason you are paying high admission prices to the movies is that the producers had a few fat years in which they made so much money they didn't know what to do with it.

Rather than give it to the government as excess-profits tax they paid it out in "million dollar" salaries.

The ones who received it paid income tax on it. The government did not lose anything, but the movie people obtained advertising by this means.

The movie producers in their new wealth acted like other rich. They wore their dinner rings to breakfast.
Now they would like to reduce admission prices to fill up empty seats but they can't do it because of stars' contracts.

The exhibitor pays as much for the rental of films as he used to pay. He can't very well afford to reduce admission prices.

A FEW FIGURES

The gross income of movie distributors in 1921 was $118,054,635. That was an increase of $11,000,000 over 1920.

Admission tax for stage and screen theaters, amounted to $32,633,093 in 1921, a decrease of more than $4,000, 000.

In other words, the exhibitor paid out more for his films and received less at the box office. That, according to official government figures.

Dream Saves
Young Woman
From Death

London.—Betty Dittinsar, Norwegian girl, owes her life to her belief in dreams.

She advertised for a position as traveling companion. A reply instructed her to come to the Bourne-mouth railway station where she would be met by her prospective employer.

The night before she left she dreamed she was met at a railway station by a man in a motor car who later tried to murder her.

Arriving at Bourne-mouth, she recognized it as the station of her dreams and returned to London.

The next day another girl, Irene Wilkins, went to Bourne-mouth to answer an advertisement offering employment. Later her dead body was found on a motor road leading from the station.

Handwriting of the letters to Miss Dittinsar and Miss Wilkins was the same, police say.

LETTERS TO LOVERS
Vim And Joy

By Winona Wilcox

ORE than one nice girl has complained that she is over-looked by the average man for "the impossible girl" of loud dress and vulgar manners.

"And why do they do it?"
So when I came Flossy D's second question; "Does the average man like good health in a girl?" I realized that I had the answer at hand.

"The impossible vulgar girl" almost invariably has a super-abundant of good health. She bubbles over with vivacity and chatter, laughter and action. To what she calls her "pop" she owes her big success with the men, even if she never expends her energy in the way of grooming.

Good health means vim, vitality, resiliency and joy.

Once upon a time it was the fashion for women to faint. The early English novelists produced their stay-est effects by placing the limp figure of the heroine in the arms of the handy hero. Then, surely a popular man must have been educated in first aid.

Today few men would have the least idea how to bring a girl out of a faint. Today the nervous girl, the tired girl, the drooping girl is not in demand anywhere. She makes no appeal to the average man.

But helplessness he likes. That's different.

Helplessness indicates a lack of experience. Dependence makes demands upon his superior powers, and thus contributes to his pride. His ego is exalted pleasantly.

A young husband, in contributing the following—nearly covers the average man's attitude toward good health as a feminine asset.

After four years of wedded bliss
I am at the end of my patience as well as my pocketbook. My wife loves hospitals. She admits it. She adores sanitariums.

"She eats as much as I do and sleeps better. But she is too nervous to have any children. Sometimes I fear that she coddles her 'nerves', so that she may remain childless. But I'd like to have my little family while I am young enough to chum with my boys and girls."

"What's to be done when a wife has resolved to remain a childless invalid?"
Probably this letter is not as hard and unjust as it may seem to some readers. About 75 per cent of all persons who ask for medical attention are "nervous" patients. They need not be, and they would not be, if they were only willing to be properly instructed in the laws of health.

But that is not the point here, except as indicating that a good deal of the sickness of women is imaginary.
The point to be made now is that most men consider good health a necessary item of feminine loveliness, while those who have studied eugenics and genetics make good health and essential qualification for marriage.

BOWLING DRIVES BEING PREPARED FOR STATE MEET

Final Preparations Underway for State Pin Tournament of Elks

Final preparations are being made for the opening of the annual state bowling tournament for Elks to be held on the alleys in Appleton Elks home. The drives were closed Wednesday night and the teams are at work on the alleys putting them in first class condition for the big pin classic. When the first balls are hurled at the maple Saturday afternoon the drives will be without a bump or a crouch.

Preparations are being made to take care of bowling fans who will watch the progress of the tournament from the side lines. Bleachers are being erected that will provide seating accommodations for several hundred spectators.

Attendants will be on duty at the drives from early morning until late at night during the tourney and effort will be made to have the alleys in constant use. Teams from out of town will bowl at scheduled times but Appleton teams will roll whenever the members of the teams can be brought together and when the alleys are not in use by visiting maple bowlers.

The big days of the tournament will be Saturdays and Sundays when out of town bowlers will be here to perform on the drives in morning, afternoon and night sessions. Many teams from away are scheduled to use the alleys on Thursday and Friday afternoons and nights while several visiting bowlers will roll for the prizes on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. However, the Appleton teams will have the alleys the greater part of the time on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Members of the state bowling tournament committee are making plans to entertain visiting bowlers and Elks who will accompany the teams to Appleton. Every effort is being made to make this year's tournament the biggest and best that has ever been held in Wisconsin.

CLASSICS of the DIAMOND

Jim Vaughan, now out of the big leagues because of the violation of some rule of baseball, always was a great pitcher, but seldom strong on repartee.

However, a stock phrase that is now used was really coined by Vaughan some fifteen years ago.

At that time Jim Joffries reigned supreme among the heavyweight pugilists and Stanley Ketchel was a bear among the middleweights.

Jim Vaughan was one of the huskiest built pitchers that ever graced the major. Well over six feet and weighing around 200 in condition, Vaughan would command attention anywhere.

Jim, always a quiet fellow, enjoyed nothing more than a scuffle in the dressing room. One day he and Ned Ball, who weighed around 150, started to fool in front of the Cleveland bench. It ended when Vaughan picked Ball up bodily and seated him in the corner of the dugout in a rather rude manner.

The easy manner in which Vaughan had handled Ball caused the latter to remark:

"If I was as big and strong as you I would challenge Jeffries."

"Well, you are just about Ketchel's size," replied Vaughan.

"and there is nothing to prevent you taking him on."

LUNNON MAY GET SECOND "BATTLE OF THE CENTURY"

British Promoter and Champion Jack Are Showing Some Activity

By United Press Leased Wire
By Henry L. Farrell
New York—Charles B. Cochrane, noted British promoter, is to build an immense sport stadium in London. Ordinarily that means nothing. Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, is looking over steamship pamphlets in the shadow of the transatlantic piers. Nothing extraordinary for one possessed of cash and a wanderlust.

Putting two and two together, however, it puts a little wind in the sails of the Dempsey-Carpenter second act rumor.

Newspapers received Thursday from London dealt at length with the project of Cochrane to build a stadium large enough to accommodate the Olympic games, great international fights and big football matches. England will not have a chance for the Olympic games until 1926; present facilities are ample for the football championships; and for anything but a "battle of the century," the clubs where Cochrane used to promote big bouts are spacious.

In announcing his plans, Cochrane promised to surprise London by the speed with which the stadium will be completed. He did not disclose the building plans as regarding material, etc. Americans know that a pine saucer can spring up in a surprising space of time.

Dempsey back in New York says he has no definite plans but that he will do anything his manager, Jack Kearns, arranges for him.

MILWAUKEE WANTS "PRO" FOOTBALL

Milwaukee—Signing Jim Thorpe, noted Indian football star, to manage a professional grid team here next season, Milwaukee wants the professional pigskin ranks here next season. It was announced Thursday.

Negotiations for a franchise in the professional football league have been completed and Thorpe announced by wire that he had already made arrangements to sign several well known stars.

The games will be played at Athletic park, American association baseball park.

SHINNERS SIGNS TO PLAY WITH GIANTS

New York—Brother Ralph Shinn, the Wisconsin Whizzer, sent the New York Giants his signed contract Tuesday afternoon and served notice on Bill Cunningham, Ike Boone, Casey Stengel and other aspirants for the center field position on the Giants to move out of his way.

Somebody in Kansas city thinks well of Shinn. A clipping exhibited by Mr. Tierney, contacted Gary Hermann to trade Ed Roush to the Giants and take Shinn in exchange. By this wily move the Reds would get a man worth two Roushes and younger said the writer.

GIBBONS AGREES TO BATTLE TOMMY MURPHY

Peoria, Ill.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul phantom middleweight, has signed a match with Stockyards Tommy Murphy, Chicago, for ten rounds here March 2.

Milwaukee—Tommy Neary and Barney Griffin, two local welterweights have been signed to appear in the semi-windup bout of the Bob Moha-Ted Jamieson bout here Monday night which is being staged by the Milwaukee Boxing club.

HILL MATCHED TO WRESTLE ZBYSKO IN FONDY ARENA

Appleton Grappler Gets Another Chance to Try for World Title

George Hill of Appleton, heavyweight wrestler, will meet Stanislas Zbyszko, world's champion in a finish bout in Fond du Lac next month. Jack Brunkhorst, Fond du Lac promoter, has completed arrangements with the big Pole to appear in bouts in Fond du Lac and Oshkosh in March and will send Hill against the title holder in the Fond du Lac show. Hill is anxious for another struggle with Zbyszko. The Appleton grappler gave the champion a hard tussle here three weeks ago and Zbyszko was able to get only one fall on Hill in two hours of wrestling. Since that battle Hill has held his own. "Terrible" Hill is a draw in a two hour match and is confident he will give Zbyszko a much harder struggle if he meets him again in the ring.

Zbyszko is scheduled to meet Arnold Minkley in a 12-round decision match in Milwaukee on Feb. 24. Following that match he will wrestle in Fond du Lac and Oshkosh and if he still retains his championship will meet Yusif Mahmoud in Kansas City on March 14.

TRY A DAY

How many hits is it possible to make in an inning without a run being scored? I understand that it is possible to make six hits, without a run going over the plate. Please explain.

It is possible to make six hits in an inning without a run being scored. The first batter triples but is thrown out at the plate trying to stretch it into a home run. The second batter also triples and is thrown out at the plate. The next three batters single, filling the bases. The sixth batter hits a grounder between second and third. It strikes the runner going to third. That automatically retires the runner and makes the third out. It also entitles the batsman to a base hit, but no runs can score on such a play.

KIMBERLY-CLARK FIVE WINS FROM HIGH TEAM

The Kimberly-Clark basketball team defeated the Appleton High school team 24 to 19 Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in a regular scheduled game. The team is a regular in the Industrial league. Coach Vincent used his second team for the contest, preferring to take no chance on having any of his first string men injured before the game with Neenah High Saturday night.

PITTSBURG MAN ADDS TO HIS TOURNEY LEAD

Chicago—Harry Thomas, Bradstock, Pa., increased his lead in the world's classic bowling tournament here Thursday, his score being 271 7-50 points in 60 games. F. Katora of Chicago is second with 261 15-50 in 60 games and Sykes Thomas of Chicago is third with 251 32-50 in 55 games. Dr. Ehike of Milwaukee is 16th with 192 40-50 in 45 games.

ST. ALOYSIUS FIVE TO MEET BOY SCOUT TEAM

The St. Aloysius Young Men's society basketball team will meet the Boy Scout Troop 2 quintet at 8:15 Thursday night in St. Joseph hall. A curtain raiser will be the Fourth Ward Athletics and a team composed of younger members of the society will start at 7:30.

LAWRENCE FIVE IN FINAL HOME BATTLE FRIDAY

Blue and White Meets Carroll in Last Contest of Year on Local Floor

The Lawrence college basketball tossers will go into action for the last time this season on their own floor when they clash with the Carroll college cagers Friday night in Alexander gymnasium.

Three games remain to be played on the Blue and White schedule. On Feb. 24, the week following the Carroll game, Coach H. D. McChesney will send his basket tossers against the Ripon quintet on the Ripon floor and on March 3, the Lawrence five will play a return game with Carroll in Waukesha.

Coach McChesney is working his athletes hard this week in preparation for Friday night's struggle. The Presbyterians are going at top speed and outplayed the Ripon five for three quarters of the way on the Ripon floor Friday night. The Carroll tossers are coming to Appleton expecting to defeat Lawrence and are sure to put up a hard scrap.

The Blue and White must win from Carroll to hold second place in the Wisconsin minor college championship race and the Lawrence mentor intends to have his players in excellent shape for the game. Barring accidents in practice this week all the Blue and White regulars will be ready to step into the game Friday night and Coach McChesney will start his strongest lineup against the invaders.

MUDDLES CLUTTER UP PENNANT RACE

Revised Figures Give Neenah Quintet Central Wisconsin Loop Title

One muddle follows another in rapid succession in the Central Wisconsin basketball league. Just when the percentage figures showed Neenah and Fond du Lac were tied for first place in the league race and a post-season series necessary to decide the championship, along comes an announcement that Fondy has been penalized the loss of two games on a protest from Green Bay and Neenah is standing alone at the top of the heap.

Revised figures show Neenah has won 11 games and lost 6 for a percentage of .647, and Fond du Lac has won 10 games and lost 7 for a percentage of .586. These new figures assure the pennant for Neenah. The Neenah team is scheduled to play Appleton this week in a postponed game but Manager Dame has announced his team has disbanded for the season and will play Green Bay Saturday night but regardless of the result of that struggle Neenah will cop the championship.

NOBODY HERE TO FIGHT SO KILBANE GOES ABROAD

By United Press Leased Wire
Cleveland, O.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, isn't going to Europe this March to pick up easy gold.

That, at least, is what he told the United Press Friday, answering charges of English sport writers to the effect he was crossing the pond on a "leg pulling" expedition.

"Who is there for me to fight in America," he asked.

"Surely the public doesn't want me to box such scrappers as DeFoe, Sieger or Herman? There isn't a featherweight in the country at present whose record entitles him to a match for the title."

According to Johnny he is going abroad to get a crack at Albert Wyns Belgium, champion of Europe, or Eugene Crieguet of France. Joe Fox England also is a possibility. Johnny defeated this lad in Philadelphia about three years ago.

Major league scouts say that O'Connell, the $75,000 beauty purchased by McGraw for the Giants, will never make good at first base. McGraw counters by saying it is his intention to use him in the outfield.

REPUBLICANS OF COUNTY ORGANIZE FOR 1922 BATTLE

Get Early Start in Movement to Unite Against Radical Politicians

Outagamie county Republicans fell in line with the state movement to present a united front against the Nonpartisan league and Socialists in the 1922 fall election when they organized an association to be known as the United Progressive Republicans of Outagamie County and adopted a declaration of principles. All Republican electors who subscribe to these principles are to be members of the association and there will be no dues of any kind.

Temporary organization was perfected Wednesday evening at a meeting of representative Republicans from all parts of the county in the French room of the Sherman house. Officers and an executive committee were elected and there was an agreement to meet again in the spring when roads will make it possible for men from the country districts to attend.

The executive committee which has elected the principles named at the meeting. This committee consists of B. C. Wolter and F. S. Bradford, Appleton; L. H. Waite, Seymour; Henry Froehlich, Black Creek; P. A. Gloudehans, Little Chute. The officers are Charles Hagen, Appleton, president; David Heinen, Hortonville, vice president; John R. Riedel, Appleton, secretary and treasurer.

SKOGOMO IS HERE

Principal speakers were Senator George Skogomo of River Falls, Assemblyman Mark S. Catlin of Appleton, and the Rev. Father Visser of Oneida. B. C. Wolter, one of the representatives from the Ninth Congressional district on the State Committee of Forty-four, presided.

The greater part of the evening was devoted to emphasizing the danger to Wisconsin as a result of the Nonpartisan league and Socialist movement in the state. All the speakers emphasized that only three votes kept a coalition of leaguers and Socialists from gaining control of the state legislature last year and declared that a united effort must be made this year to eliminate that danger.

In all probability a county convention will be held about May 10 to elect delegates to the state meeting which the Committee of Forty-four has called for June 1. The county is entitled to 22 delegates at that meeting.

FORMER SOLDIERS LINE UP BEHIND AMERICAN LEGION

Wisconsin's former soldiers are standing with the American Legion. It is expected the organization will not only hold its own this year but will actually increase its membership slightly.

This is attributed to the situation as regards the bonus which is causing ex-service men to get together and co-operate more closely. More members of the legion paid their dues in January this year than ever before, it is said.

Here Is Proof That Spring Is Near At Hand

As a sure harbinger of spring, behold the annual advent of the great American marmot, commonly called the ground hog.

Invited to wander in the upper world by a drab February 2, his hogship is still at large in spite of subzero temperatures. Otto Moss, holder of Grand Chute is authority for the statement. He insists further that he has the "goods" to prove it.

The "goods" is Mr. Groundhog himself who strolled into Mossholter's yard the other morning. The old fellow was puffing heavily and seemed very weary after struggling through the snow drifts. His capture was easy and he was then transferred to the cellar where he is being held for release until the time when Dame Nature will give him a more hospitable reception.

NEW REFRIGERATOR SYSTEM IS INSTALLED

Petersen & Reibman, who are making extensive improvements to their meat market on College-ave., including the installation of an ice machine, have changed the counter from the west side, where it has been for 20 years, to the east side. From force of habit patrons unconsciously approach the counter from the east side, pushing aside whatever obstacles are in the way. The cooling room is completed and the present counter is to be replaced by a refrigerator counter.

Exciting Runaway

A horse belonging to Martin Coenen of Grand Chute ran away on west College-ave. Wednesday, causing considerable excitement. The animal ran west and on reaching W. C. Fish's grocery store took the sidewalk which it kept until it reached Cherry-st. where it turned south and then east when it reached the intersection of Walnut-st. The cutter and harness were badly damaged, but the horse escaped uninjured.

DEATHS

CREASY FUNERAL

The funeral of W. N. Creasy, civil war veteran who died at Wappaca veterans home last week, was held at Plover Monday afternoon. The body was taken from the train direct to the cemetery, where brief services were held and where it was interred beside his wife. Four members of the American Legion acted as pallbearers. The decedent's only survivor is his son, William B. Creasy, of Rhineland, who with C. B. Tift of Appleton attended the services. Mr. Creasy was a member of the George D. Eggleston post, G. A. R., and before coming to Appleton made his home in Plover for the greater part of his life.

WILLIAM E. HELING

William Elmer Heling, 25, died Thursday morning at the home of his father-in-law, Gustave Burmester. He is survived by his widow, whom he married two years ago, his mother, Mrs. H. Heling Seymour, four brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from Zion Lutheran church, with the Rev. Theodore Marth in charge.

START TEARING DOWN CLUBHOUSE AT COUNTRY CLUB

Contracts for Putting Up $18,- 000 Building to be Signed Soon

Work of tearing down the River-side Country club building was started Wednesday morning and will be rushed through with all possible speed. Immediately after the old building is out of the way excavation for the new building will be started. The new edifice, to be erected at a cost of $18,000, is to be ready for occupancy by May 1.

The Fraser Lumber and Mfg. Co., has been awarded the contract for the building. T. W. Orhison, chairman of the building committee, spent Thursday going over the plans with the contractors, making a few changes in the original plans and the contract is expected to be signed Friday.

All the work on the new building will be done by Appleton contractors. The excavation contract was sublet to H. W. Lillge, the Langstadt-Meyer Co., has been awarded the contract for electric wiring, and W. S. Patterson & Co., have been given the contract for plumbing.

The club house furniture has been stored in the caddy house on the club grounds. A part of this furniture will be kept but much new furniture will be purchased for the new building.

APPLETON MEN FAIL TO WIN SKAT MEET PRIZES

Appleton skat players who attended the annual winter tournament of Wisconsin Skat League at Milwaukee Sunday, Feb. 5, failed to win any prizes notwithstanding some of them made high scores. Copies of the list of prize winners were received here Wednesday. The first four names on the list are Charles Clausen, Wausaukee, Joseph Wittman and George Schmeling, Milwaukee; and Fred P. Cross of Green Bay. The scores were much higher this year than previous years.

WATER ENCROACHES ON BEACH OWNERS' PROPERTY

The beach of Lake Winnebago has encroached on the north shore line more than ever this winter and at several points has worked its way inland to an extent that will make it necessary for cottage owners to build breakwaters if they want to protect their property. Lots owned by the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. and Lutz Ice Co., between Waverly and Brighton beach, are among those most damaged.

EFFICIENCY TALK FOR WAR VETERANS

J. J. Davis, Oshkosh, to Deliver Address to Industrial Management Class

J. J. Davis of Oshkosh will deliver an address in Appleton Vocational school auditorium at 7:30 Friday night before the class in industrial management, conducted under the soldier bonus law. His subject will be "The Efficiency Movement."

Mr. Davis is connected with the Paine Lumber Co., in Oshkosh and is widely known as an industrial engineer. He has been conducting a class in industrial management in Oshkosh and was largely instrumental in organizing this kind of work for soldier bonus classes as his class for former service men in Oshkosh was the first of its kind in the state.

"The course in industrial management is open to war veterans and other people interested in the work," W. S. Ford, director of the Vocational school, said Thursday. Judging from the first lecture, it will be of such interest and importance that no one interested in industrial management can afford to miss taking the course."
